Understanding the Gift: Three Books at $4.95 Each

When considering gifts, books are timeless and versatile options that can cater to various tastes and interests. Jamie's choice to purchase three books at a uniform price of $4.95 each highlights a budget-conscious approach while still offering meaningful and valuable presents.

The Appeal of Giving Books as Gifts

Books have long been cherished gifts for several reasons:

- Personalization: Selecting books that align with the recipient's interests demonstrates thoughtfulness.
- Educational Value: Books can inspire, teach, or entertain.
- Longevity: Unlike perishable items, books can be treasured for years.
- Affordability: Many good books are available at reasonable prices, making them accessible gifts.

Calculating the Total Cost of the Gift

Understanding the total expenditure when purchasing multiple items helps in planning and budgeting. Let's analyze the cost of Jamie's purchase.

Basic Calculation

- Price of one book: $4.95
- Number of books: 3

To find the total cost:

Total cost = Price per book x Number of books

Total cost = $4.95 x 3 = $14.85

Therefore, Jamie spent $14.85 on the three books.

Considering Additional Costs

While the base price is $14.85, additional factors may influence the total amount spent:

- Taxes: Depending on the location, sales tax may apply.
- Shipping and Handling: If purchased online, delivery fees might add to the total.
- Discounts or Promotions: Some stores offer discounts for multiple purchases, which could reduce the overall cost.

For example, if a sales tax of 7% applies:

Tax amount = $14.85 x 0.07 = $1.04

Total amount payable = $14.85 + $1.04 = $15.89

Identify Her Interests
