We will also discuss important rules, tips, and examples to help you master the usage of these prepositions in everyday conversation and writing.

Why Prepositions Matter in Describing Dates and Events

Prepositions are small words that connect nouns, pronouns, or phrases to other words within a sentence. They often indicate relationships involving time, place, or movement. Correct use of prepositions like "at," "in," and "on" ensures clarity and accuracy when describing dates, times, or locations.

For instance:

- Saying "My birthday is on July 30th" is correct because "on" specifies a particular date.
- Using "in" as in "in July" refers to a broader period within the year.
- Using "at" might refer to specific times or locations, such as "at 5 pm" or "at the party."

Choosing the Correct Preposition for Dates and Times

Let's analyze when to use "at," "in," and "on" in different contexts related to dates:

Using "On" for Specific Dates and Days

- "On" is used with specific days and dates.

Examples:

- My birthday is on July 30th.
- The meeting is on Monday.

- The event happened on New Year's Day.

Tip: When mentioning a specific date, always use "on".

Using "In" for Months, Years, and Longer Periods

- "In" is used with longer periods such as months, years, centuries, or parts of the day.

Examples:

- My birthday is in July.
- We went on vacation in 2022.
- She was born in the 1990s.
- The concert was in the evening.

Tip: Use "in" when referring to a general time frame or a longer period.

Using "At" for Specific Times or Precise Locations

- "At" is used with specific times and specific locations or points.

Examples:

- The party starts at 7 pm.
- I'll meet you at the park.
- She arrived at the airport.

Tip: Use "at" when mentioning exact times or precise points in space.

Applying These Rules to the Sentence

Now, applying these rules to the sentence: "My birthday is ... on ... the 30th of July. Last year I had a great day."

Correctly completed sentence:

"My birthday is on the 30th of July. Last year I had a great day."

Because:

- The date "the 30th of July" is specific, requiring "on."
- The phrase "last year" refers to a year, which is a longer period, but in this sentence, "last year" is a time frame, so no preposition is needed before it.

Variations with prepositions:

- "My birthday is in July." (General month, not a specific date)
- "My birthday is on July 30th." (Specific date)
- "My birthday is at the specific time of 7 pm." (Time-specific)

Common Mistakes and How to Avoid Them

| Mistake | Correct Usage | Explanation |

|---|---|---|
